B.A 6 th semester (Honours)	Project paper code: Edu-HC-6026	Project	15-03-2024	14

Details of the project:

The study was conducted by the 6th semester (Hons) students of the department of Education, M.C College, Barpeta in an academic session of 2023-24. The study was carried out on “Women Literacy of Barpeta district of Assam” and “An Evaluative Study of Textbook in English” and “Health and Hygiene of Primary school children of Barpeta District of Assam” as well as “Children academic status in context to the socio-economic condition of parents in Barpeta district of Assam” of the student’s own choice of areas.

Objectives of the study:

- To study Reading, Writing and communication skill of women of the area.
- To assess the ability of solving arithmetic problem of women of the area.
- To evaluate the English textbook of different classes.
- To evaluate the English textbooks prepared by different educational boards. E.g., NCERT, SCERT, SEBA, AHSEC.
- To study the issues surrounding maintaining health and hygiene in the school environment.
- To study about the physical health and hygiene conditions of primary school students.
- To study Reading, Writing and communication skill of women of the area.
- To assess the ability of solving arithmetic problem of women of the area.

Outcomes of the study:

The outcomes of the study are as follows:

1. From the study investigators have found that women literacy of area is quite poor as compared to the men. Here investigators have found different literacy percentage of women of their own areas which are quite less than the men.
2. From the study, the investigators have found that the books are large in size, weak binding, not appropriate setting of theme, related content are not explained, content are less explanation, less classification, unsystematic explanation and lack of extra aid.

3. According to the study's findings, primary school students had the highest bacterial load on their hands, followed by secondary school students and KG students, and the lowest among PG and UG students. The degree of contamination is also determined by the student's age, and it decreases as they get older.
4. From the study investigators have found that 65% children are in good learning atmosphere and 35% children have bad learning atmosphere. Here the learning atmosphere is not good. Thus the parental illiteracy effect on the education of the children.
